Anthrax Found On 3 Local Farms

State Official Says Disease Kills 130 Hogs

State officials Monday announced at least three Pickaway County farms have been affected by the dread anthrax disease.

Dr. Harry Geyer, state veterinarian, Monday said the trio of local farms on which anthrax has been positively diagnosed are a part of the 67 farms in the state as a whole affected by the disease.

At the same time, Geyer reported a total of 130 hogs have been killed by the disease in its spread through one-fourth of Ohio's 88 counties.

Geyer told of the new totals Monday and said he still has been unable to locate the source of the livestock-killing disease.

He gave this tabulation of farms on which anthrax has been positively diagnosed:

Athens, 1; Champaign, 1; Clark, 2; Clermont, 2; Clinton, 19; Delaware, 1; Fayette, 5; Franklin, 2; Greene, 6; Hardin, 5; Highland, 2; Knox, 1; Licking, 8; Meigs, 2; Mercer, 1; Miami, 1; Morgan, 1; Montgomery, 1; Pickaway, 3; Preble, 2; Ross, 1; and Warren, 1.

Geyer said the animals that have died would be worth about $5,000 to the farmers. But the cost of the anthrax outbreak actually is much higher because it includes treatment of hogs with penicillin and the loss of unborn pigs in sows that died.

Geyer also told of a cow that died of anthrax in Indiana and of its body being sent to a fox farm near Fort Recovery in Mercer County. He advised fox and mink ranchers to make sure meat they get for food does not come from diseased animals.

Meanwhile, Ohio Agriculture Department inspectors, riding in State Highway Patrol cars, have picked up 2,000 samples of feed at 23 reduction plants in the state.

Director H. S. Foust said the samples will be tested for anthrax as quickly as possible. Most of the samples will be taken to the U. S. Public Health Service laboratory in Atlanta, Ga.

Samples picked up over the weekend were in addition to the 182 samples picked up at the Buchseid Division of Inland Products, Inc., near Columbus. These samples still are being tested at Ohio State University.

Foust said no complete results are available. Samples are fed to mice to determine whether they contain anthrax germs.

THE DIRECTOR said the 2,000 samples were picked up at: St. Mary's Fertilizer Co., near Celina; Delphos Fertilizer Co., near Delphos; and Seymour Fertilizer Co., near Chillicothe.

Airline Hostess Shoots Man, 43

ST. LOUIS, March 17.—An attractive, 20-year-old airline stewardess told police she fatally shot a company official during a quarrel Sunday after he accused her of dating other men.

Lawrence E. Keil, 43, married and father of two children, was found in a parked automobile, wounded six times. He died a short time later. Police said the stewardess, Betty Lou Tracy, signed a statement admitting she shot Keil.

President Describes Himself As Lonely White House Freak

Harry S. Truman, in his own words, is a sentimental, lonely man who sometimes feels that the White House has turned him into "a two-headed calf"—a freak in the eyes of the American people.

This appraisal comes in his new book, "Mr. President."

A preview of the volume, already labeled by book men as a best seller, will be carried Tuesday in The Circleville Herald.

Among the many colorful descriptions used by Mr. Truman in his book are:

1. There is no indispensable man in a democracy.

2. Politicians never get out until they die or are kicked out.

3. At least twice since he took office, Truman has feared World War III was near.

4. He has been tired of "babysitting the Soviets" since 1946.

ONE OF TWO CARS shot off an overpass when a Pennsylvania freight train is derailed in Philadelphia lands on a parked auto. A few seconds before a trolley had passed under the span. High-voltage lines and trolley wires were torn down but no one was injured.

Morris To Face Another Round Before Senate Probe Committee

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—Government cleanup man Newbold Morris, fresh from one investigation in which he verbally slugged it out with senators, is booked for another within a month.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) announced he will call Morris before his Senate Judiciary Committee "before the Easter recess" to tell under oath whether he ever was associated with Communist front activities.

Rep. Potter (R-Mich.) has told the House that Morris came to the government cleanup job with "a sordid background" of association with Communist front groups. Potter said this is recorded in the files of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Morris has vigorously denied he ever consciously had anything to do with Communist front groups. In a letter to Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), who questioned him about it, Morris said he is "not a subversive individual."

THE GOVERNMENT'S cleanup chief also says he does not intend to let his critics bully him into resigning his post.

"I wouldn't have much guts if I bowed to that sort of thing, would I?" he asked.

Morris was replying to criticism by Sen. Nixon (R-Calif.) who has predicted President Truman would have to replace Morris because of Morris' conduct before the Senate committee investigating ship deals.

Morris has denied any wrongdoing in connection with ship deals and heatedly told the committee he was being subjected to "character destruction." He added:

"I'll say again as I've said before I have no intention of quitting."

Morris said in an address before a New York Episcopal group Sunday that he will send out questionnaires to top federal officials Tuesday. He has said his first cleanup step would be to look into all outside income received by high federal officials in the executive branch. He said the first questionnaire on this subject would go to Attorney General McGrath.

Meanwhile, Rep. Meader (R-Mich.) urged immediate House consideration of his resolution to name a bi-partisan committee to investigate government corruption, and to vote $100,000 to finance its work.

He said Morris is "incompetent and unqualified" to do the job. He also attacked the "sincerity" of the administration in selecting Morris.

Brunette Held In Lush Reno Burglary Case

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., March 17.—A 36-year-old brunette was held in jail here Monday as the possible finger woman of a $1.5 million burglary in Reno.

FBI agents said she was arrested with $50,000 of the stolen cash, 28 pieces of jewelry which might have come from LaVerne Redfield's safe and a large package of securities. The jewelry and securities were being checked to see if they belonged to the eccentric Reno stockbroker.

The woman is Mrs. Marie Jeanne d'Arc Machaud, who had been Redfield's guest so frequently he was "shocked and greatly upset" by her arrest. "Why, I trusted her implicitly," he said.

The blue-eyed French-Canadian writer-artist is the sixth person arrested in connection with the Feb. 29 burglary. Four are men, two women.

Mrs. Machaud was arrested on the California Limited enroute to Chicago. She was arraigned on charges of conspiring to transport stolen goods across state lines. Bail was set at $100,000.

The $50,000 which FBI agents said she carried was the biggest piece of loot yet reported recovered. Arresting agents made no estimate of the value of securities or jewelry she carried.

Redfield reported $300,000 cash, some $250,000 in jewelry and up to $2 million in securities stolen from his safe.

All-Scandinavian Council Is Set Up

COPENHAGEN, March 17.—(AP)—A tentative agreement has been reached for an all-Scandinavian council to deal with the mutual problems of Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Iceland.

Foreign ministers of the four countries worked out plans for the council at a two-day conference ended here Sunday. Now they will seek final approval from their governments.

Six-Shooters Are Popular (But Headaches) In Korea

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—Enlisted men in Korea who want to tote personal six-shooters are giving headaches to the military and postoffice. Also they are leading kink into unwitting infraction of the law.

Officials said an increasing number of revolvers and pistols have been found in the mail recently, addressed to GIs.

Relatives try to mail the guns in response to requests from servicemen in the war zone.

Why do they want them?

Marine and Army authorities here said they weren't sure, but they had some ideas after talking with relatives. Among the reasons suggested were these:

1. If officers can wear side arms, why shouldn't enlisted men?

2. In forward areas, close to the battleline, regulations require that firearms be carried. A revolver is easier to carry than an M-1 rifle on a sling or in the hand.

3. Some GIs claim in letters that they are inadequately armed.

4. A mistaken impression that any officer has the unlimited right to have a sidearm mailed to him.

POW Camp Hit Again, Claim

Reds Accuse Allies, But OK Truce Deal

MUNSAN, March 17.—(AP)—Communist truce negotiators today accused the UN Command of carrying out another "criminal" aerial attack on a prisoner of war camp in North Korea.

The Reds said a British soldier was wounded when an Allied plane strafed a camp near Changsong before dawn Sunday.

A second group of negotiators working on truce supervision began the thorny job of picking five ports of entry for troops and materiel on each side of the battle line following Communist acceptance of a UN "package deal" Sunday.

An Allied staff officer said approval of the five-point plan represented "the most progress in two months."

Chinese Col. Tsai Cheng-wen said the Allied plane opened fire on the Changsong prison camp despite "conspicuous markings" on the tents. He admitted under questioning, however, the camp was not lighted.

TSAI ALSO referred to two bloody riots at the UN Kojie Island prison camp. Thursday 12 North Korean prisoners of war were killed and 26 wounded. Feb. 18, 75 Korean civilian internees were killed and 129 were wounded.

Tsai lodged a protest declaring "such barbarous massacres would not be further tolerated."

U. S. Army authorities said Thursday's riot began when Communist war prisoners and a group of cooperative prisoners began hurling stones at one another. South Korean guards accompanying the cooperative prisoners opened fire.

Red shore guns Sunday hit the superstructure of the battleship Wisconsin, flagship of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, off the east coast of North Korea.

Damage was superficial. Three sailors were hurt slightly.

U. S. F-86 Sabrejets Sunday shot down three Communist Mig-15 jets, probably destroyed two and damaged eight in the first air battle in four days.

Infantrymen warmed their chilled bones under one of the warmest suns since last fall.

Ground action remained light and scattered.

British Leftist Raps U.S. Policy

JARROW, Eng., March 17.—(AP)—The leader of Britain's leftwing Labor faction, Aneurin Bevan, says the United States' rearmament program is senseless and her economic policy is "doing more damage to Western Europe than Stalin can ever do."

Western Europe is making a great mistake, Bevan told a political meeting, in allowing leadership of the world to fall into the hands of the United States.

Jap Tax Payers Toss Fire Bombs

TOKYO, March 17.—(AP)—It's tax-paying time in Japan, too, and some disgruntled citizens showed their displeasure by throwing fire bombs at two Japanese tax offices.

One hit and three missed the Yokohama office. Another bomb hit the Kawasaki office, south of Yokohama. Both fires were quickly controlled. Police said the bombs apparently were beer bottles filled with gasoline.

leading to an idea that GIs should have the same privilege.

5. Some young soldiers are only a few years removed from boyhood days when they yearned to pack a pearl-handled six-gun in a holster, cowboy fashion. There was at least one older soldier of fame who wore pearl-handled revolvers, name of Gen. George Patton.

The military says most enlisted men don't need sidearms, that under the "tables of organization and equipment" sidearms are issued "to any and all whose duties require use of same."

Postal laws specify that "pistols, revolvers and other firearms capable of being concealed on the person are non-mailable and shall not be deposited in or carried by the mails."

However, a provision does allow sidearms to be mailed to officers of the armed forces "for use in connection with their official duties when an affidavit is provided guaranteeing that the need is for official use only."

The trouble seems to be that most relatives—including mothers, aunts and sisters—simply never heard of the law covering firearms. And it is likely most GIs also are unfamiliar with it.

So when Willie writes home and says: "Ma, send me a revolver," she just wraps it up and takes it to the postoffice.

U.S. Attorneys To Prosecute Grain Case

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—A House subcommittee says the government's claim against the Honegger-Hanley Mills, Inc., of Mansfield, O., for an alleged shortage of government-owned wheat which the company had stored, has been referred to U. S. attorneys for action.

The committee said the Mansfield firm is accused of a shortage of 3,204 bushels of wheat. The government's claim is for $9,754.71.

The case was referred to the Department of Justice Sept. 1, 1949, for suit. The suit has not been filed, but the Agriculture Department on April 19, 1951, recommended rejection of a compromise offer.

On Jan. 22 of this year the Justice Department sent the firm's check to the U. S. attorney for delivery to the mill.

The subcommittee said the Department of Justice is taking a more active role in dealing with shortages of stored grain.

The subcommittee's report said a shortage was discovered at the Kingston Farmers' Exchange, Inc., Kingston, Ohio, but final action has not been taken.

Through this means, the charges said, the IBC had excluded others from the promotion of such fights, and controlled the sale of radio, television and motion picture rights at the contests.

The defendants also were accused of obtaining exclusive use of all principal arenas in New York, Chicago and other large cities suitable for staging championship bouts.

34 Eye Stint On Ice Island At North Pole

POINT BARROW, Alaska, March 17.—(AP)—Three planes, 33 men and one woman were poised Monday for a flight to top of the world where the Navy hopes to set up a research base on a floating ice island near the North Pole.

The expedition, assembled for the second phase of "Operation Ski Jump," is to create an ice island base from which U. S. scientists can study the sea, air and agencies relating to the earth in the Arctic.

"Ski Jump Two" will be in the nature of a honeymoon for one of the veterans of last year's expedition, John F. Holmes of Falmouth, Mass. His bride of a few weeks is a skilled oceanographer and the only woman in the group.

If a base is established on one of the huge islands discovered in the Arctic in recent years, there is little danger it would be endangered by a breakup. The islands have been found to be hundreds of feet thick with only a small portion of their bulk protruding above the surface. They move slowly through the Arctic ice pack.

LEATRICE LEVY, 20, former fiancée of Arnold Schuster, tells newsmen in Baltimore, Md., that she is "terrified" lest the gunmen who slew the young Brooklyn salesman seek her out for vengeance. Schuster was shot after his tip led to the arrest in New York of bank robber Willie Sutton.

Boxing Clubs Being Accused

Monopoly Created By IBC, Is Claim

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—The International Boxing Clubs of New York and Illinois were accused Monday of conspiring to monopolize the professional championship boxing business in the United States. The Department of Justice complaint was made in a civil action in federal court.

Owners of the clubs, James D. Norris of New York and Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, and the Madison Square Boxing Corp., of New York, also were named defendants.

The charges were announced by Melville C. Williams, chief of the Department of Justice's anti-trust division.

The defendants are accused of conspiring to restrain and monopolize championship boxing bouts.

The clubs, of which Norris is president, are the chief promoters of professional championship boxing matches in the country.

Williams said they promoted or participated in the presentation of about 90 per cent of all championship contests since 1949.

NORRIS and Wirtz, together with the Madison Square Garden Corp., are principal stockholders of the New York-Illinois boxing clubs.

The complaint says the defendants obtained contracts from champions and leading contenders in all major weight divisions requiring, as a condition of participating in title bouts, to box exclusively for the IBC.

Through this means, the charges said, the IBC had excluded others from the promotion of such fights, and controlled the sale of radio, television and motion picture rights at the contests.

The defendants also were accused of obtaining exclusive use of all principal arenas in New York, Chicago and other large cities suitable for staging championship bouts.

Ah, Monday Was A Great Day For The Wearin' Of The Green

DUBLIN, Ireland, March 17.—(AP)—All over Ireland celebrations honoring St. Patrick were held Monday.

Thousands of Shamrock wearers in their holiday best trooped into the capital here from nearby villages and farms, seeking the best places to watch the two-mile parade down fabled O'Connell Street.

The parade here was the island's longest, loudest—there were half a dozen bands—and greenest. On a smaller scale, there were celebrations in every other town honoring St. Patrick, whom some historians (very unpopular Monday) say was actually a Scotsman.

President Sean T. O'Kelly and members of the government led by Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, headed Dublin's colorful procession, which also featured a display of Irish manufacturers.

Solons Decline Vote; General Remains Mum

Paul Hoffman Given 'No Answer' During Conference In Paris

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—The biggest political question of the week—will Ike come home?—was left hanging Monday.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which said it would vote Monday on whether to invite Gen. Dwight Eisenhower to Capitol Hill for testimony on the proposed $7.9 billion new foreign aid bill, left the issue dangling by putting off the vote.

And in Paris, the general himself declined to answer the question directly when it was put by Paul Hoffman, former ECA chieftain and an Ike-backer.

Hoffman told reporters he told Ike that "it would make it a great deal easier" for his backers if he would agree to come home.

But, Hoffman reported, he got no answer.

After An Hour's Discussion Behind Closed Doors by the Senate Committee, Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) announced it had been decided to delay action on a motion by Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) to request testimony from Eisenhower.

Connally said this was done because "several" committee members were absent. As far as reporters could see, only Senators Lodge (R-Mass.) and Brewster (R-Me.) were not present.

Lodge heads the Eisenhower-for-President Committee. Brewster is a supporter of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the Republican presidential nomination.

McMahon said the effect of Monday's session was to postpone any invitation of Eisenhower until after his chief deputy, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, has testified.

McMahon said he will bring the matter up again at that time.

Some Eisenhower supporters have been urging the general to return to the United States to speak out on current issues.

Those who have been opposing this have argued the Senate committee could get any information it needed from Gruenther.

Party lines are split on the issue, with McMahon, a Truman administration supporter, leading the move to get Eisenhower back.

Penn Liquor Men Check Ohio Sales

WARREN, March 17.—(AP)—Constable John Gilliland ordered two Pennsylvania state liquor agents last Saturday to move out of a parking lot adjoining a dairy and liquor store in nearby Masury.

The agents had been parked in the lot taking down license numbers of Pennsylvania residents buying liquor in Reeser's Dairy, which is licensed for retail liquor sales, Gilliland reported. The store is located just 500 feet from the Pennsylvania line. Liquor prices run as much as 25 per cent higher in Pennsylvania than in Ohio.

A second group of negotiators working on truce supervision began the thorny job of picking five ports of entry for troops and materiel on each side of the battle line following Communist acceptance of a UN "package deal" Sunday.

An Allied staff officer said approval of the five-point plan represented "the most progress in two months."

Chinese Col. Tsai Cheng-wen said the Allied plane opened fire on the Changsong prison camp despite "conspicuous markings" on the tents. He admitted under questioning, however, the camp was not lighted.

TSAI ALSO referred to two bloody riots at the UN Kojie Island prison camp. Thursday 12 North Korean prisoners of war were killed and 26 wounded. Feb. 18, 75 Korean civilian internees were killed and 129 were wounded.

Tsai lodged a protest declaring "such barbarous massacres would not be further tolerated."

U. S. Army authorities said Thursday's riot began when Communist war prisoners and a group of cooperative prisoners began hurling stones at one another. South Korean guards accompanying the cooperative prisoners opened fire.

Red shore guns Sunday hit the superstructure of the battleship Wisconsin, flagship of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, off the east coast of North Korea.

Damage was superficial. Three sailors were hurt slightly.

U. S. F-86 Sabrejets Sunday shot down three Communist Mig-15 jets, probably destroyed two and damaged eight in the first air battle in four days.

Infantrymen warmed their chilled bones under one of the warmest suns since last fall.

Ground action remained light and scattered.

British Leftist Raps U.S. Policy

JARROW, Eng., March 17.—(AP)—The leader of Britain's leftwing Labor faction, Aneurin Bevan, says the United States' rearmament program is senseless and her economic policy is "doing more damage to Western Europe than Stalin can ever do."

Western Europe is making a great mistake, Bevan told a political meeting, in allowing leadership of the world to fall into the hands of the United States.

Jap Tax Payers Toss Fire Bombs

TOKYO, March 17.—(AP)—It's tax-paying time in Japan, too, and some disgruntled citizens showed their displeasure by throwing fire bombs at two Japanese tax offices.

One hit and three missed the Yokohama office. Another bomb hit the Kawasaki office, south of Yokohama. Both fires were quickly controlled. Police said the bombs apparently were beer bottles filled with gasoline.

Solons Facing Opportunities To Economize

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—The House gets a chance this week to practice what many of its members have been preaching—economy.

Only major legislation on the docket is the biggest non-military appropriation bill of the year, a $6.2 billion measure financing more than a score of independent offices for the year starting July 1.

Anticipating a drive to trim the measure—since it carries the biggest non-military allotments Congress will consider—the appropriations committee already has whacked it about 10 per cent.

House members desiring a more substantial saving may encounter election-year difficulty trimming the budget of such agencies as the Veterans' Administration.

More than half the bill's total is earmarked for the VA and the many veterans' programs it administers.

The bill is slated to come before the House Wednesday and will be followed next week by other departmental money measures as the House presses for a 10-day Easter holiday starting April 10.

The Senate's attention will be held by the Japanese peace treaty and the long-pending tideland bill. A vote on ratification of the peace treaty is expected early in the week.

Foreign Affairs Committees of both the Senate and the House will give their full time to the President's request for a $7.9 billion program of military and economic aid to non-Communist countries.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche personally intervened Saturday and won for the Derenbergs a 15-day extension of an eviction order. The governor guaranteed to foot the bill for any damages that might occur because of Justice of the Peace Jesse Evans delayed evicting the family on the date set by the court.

Lausche acted after Mrs. Derenberger went to the governor's mansion and sobbed out her story. She told the governor the family had no place to go.

Sunday a flood of telephone calls offering help were received at a phone number listed in the directory for the Derenbergs but which they no longer have.

Now Justice of the Peace Evans has offered to act as intermediary. He said he would relay all offers of help to the troubled family.

Paul Hoffman Given 'No Answer' During Conference in Paris

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—The biggest political question of the week—will Ike come home?—was left hanging Monday.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which said it would vote Monday on whether to invite Gen. Dwight Eisenhower to Capitol Hill for testimony on the proposed $7.9 billion new foreign aid bill, left the issue dangling by putting off the vote.

And in Paris, the general himself declined to answer the question directly when it was put by Paul Hoffman, former ECA chieftain and an Ike-backer.

Hoffman told reporters he told Ike that "it would make it a great deal easier" for his backers if he would agree to come home.

But, Hoffman reported, he got no answer.

Boxing Clubs Being Accused

Monopoly Created By IBC, Is Claim

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—The International Boxing Clubs of New York and Illinois were accused Monday of conspiring to monopolize the professional championship boxing business in the United States. The Department of Justice complaint was made in a civil action in federal court.

Owners of the clubs, James D. Norris of New York and Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, and the Madison Square Boxing Corp., of New York, also were named defendants.

The charges were announced by Melville C. Williams, chief of the Department of Justice's anti-trust division.

The defendants are accused of conspiring to restrain and monopolize championship boxing bouts.

The clubs, of which Norris is president, are the chief promoters of professional championship boxing matches in the country.

Williams said they promoted or participated in the presentation of about 90 per cent of all championship contests since 1949.

NORRIS AND Wirtz, together with the Madison Square Garden Corp., are principal stockholders of the New York-Illinois boxing clubs.

The complaint says the defendants obtained contracts from champions and leading contenders in all major weight divisions requiring, as a condition of participating in title bouts, to box exclusively for the IBC.

Through this means, the charges said, the IBC had excluded others from the promotion of such fights, and controlled the sale of radio, television and motion picture rights at the contests.

The defendants also were accused of obtaining exclusive use of all principal arenas in New York, Chicago and other large cities suitable for staging championship bouts.

On Jan. 22 of this year the Justice Department sent the firm's check to the U. S. attorney for delivery to the mill.

The subcommittee said the Department of Justice is taking a more active role in dealing with shortages of stored grain.

The subcommittee's report said a shortage was discovered at the Kingston Farmers' Exchange, Inc., Kingston, Ohio, but final action has not been taken.

POINT BARROW, Alaska, March 17.—(AP)—Three planes, 33 men and one woman were poised Monday for a flight to top of the world where the Navy hopes to set up a research base on a floating ice island near the North Pole.

The expedition, assembled for the second phase of "Operation Ski Jump," is to create an ice island base from which U. S. scientists can study the sea, air and agencies relating to the earth in the Arctic.

"Ski Jump Two" will be in the nature of a honeymoon for one of the veterans of last year's expedition, John F. Holmes of Falmouth, Mass. His bride of a few weeks is a skilled oceanographer and the only woman in the group.

If a base is established on one of the huge islands discovered in the Arctic in recent years, there is little danger it would be endangered by a breakup. The islands have been found to be hundreds of feet thick with only a small portion of their bulk protruding above the surface. They move slowly through the Arctic ice pack.

Thousands of Shamrock wearers in their holiday best trooped into the capital here from nearby villages and farms, seeking the best places to watch the two-mile parade down famed O'Connell Street.

The parade here was the island's longest, loudest—there were half a dozen bands—and greenest. On a smaller scale, there were celebrations in every other town honoring St. Patrick, whom some historians (very unpopular Monday) say was actually a Scotsman.

President Sean T. O'Kelly and members of the government led by Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, headed Dublin's colorful procession, which also featured a display of Irish manufacturers.

AFTER AN HOUR'S discussion behind closed doors by the Senate committee, Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) announced it had been decided to delay action on a motion by Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) to request testimony from Eisenhower.

Connally said this was done because "several" committee members were absent. As far as reporters could see, only Senators Lodge (R-Mass.) and Brewster (R-Me.) were not present.

Lodge heads the Eisenhower-for-President Committee. Brewster is a supporter of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the Republican presidential nomination.

McMahon said the effect of Monday's session was to postpone any invitation of Eisenhower until after his chief deputy, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, has testified.

McMahon said he will bring the matter up again at that time. Some Eisenhower supporters have been urging the general to return to the United States to speak out on current issues.

Those who have been opposing this have argued the Senate committee could get any information it needed from Gruenther.

Party lines are split on the issue, with McMahon, a Truman administration supporter, leading the move to get Eisenhower back.

ST. LOUIS, March 17.—An attractive, 20-year-old airline stewardess told police she fatally shot a company official during a quarrel Sunday after he accused her of dating other men.

PLATTEVILLE, Wis., March 17.—A standing-room only crowd of more than 1,000 greeted Sen. Taft Monday as he opened his final two-week bid for Wisconsin's 30 delegate vote at the Republican national convention.

Harry S. Truman, in his own words, is a sentimental, lonely man who sometimes feels that the White House has turned him into "a two-headed calf"—a freak in the eyes of the American people.

This appraisal comes in his new book, "Mr. President."

A preview of the volume, already labeled by book men as a best seller, will be carried Tuesday in The Circleville Herald.

Among the many colorful descriptions used by Mr. Truman in his book are:

5. Thomas Dewey had nothing to offer the voters but a "warmed-over" platform.

6. Henry A. Wallace was a "dreamer" more dangerous than the German-American Bund.

7. "There is nothing I detest so much as a crooked politician."

8. John L. Lewis is "a demagogue in action."

9. He has fired some of his top aides because they got "too big for their breeches."

10. After a private discussion about their "prima donnas" with Former President Herbert Hoover, Truman was of the opinion that "it's hell when a man gets in close association with the President."

11. "I'm a damned sentimentalist."

12. The main accomplishment of his administration: the prevention of a third world war.

Saturday, Gov. Frank J. Lausche said he wanted results of tests passed on to farmers as quickly as possible. He said:

"It is essential that the farmers of Ohio as nearly as it can possibly be done be informed what the status is of the swine feed in the market."

"If any further discovery of anthrax is found in any of the products the farmers should be given that information as quickly as possible."

"THE DEPARTMENT of Agriculture has been told I will provide for them whatever they need to get to the very bottom of this and bring it to an end as quickly as can be done."

The governor made State Highway Patrol cars available to agriculture department inspectors so they could pick up samples quickly.

"The Department of Agriculture is vigorously investigating the licensed vendors of swine feed to determine whether the anthrax organism is present in any of the respective products of the licensees," the governor said.

Foust said his animal inspectors also are checking new suspected cases of anthrax.

"Whenever something like this breaks out, everyone gets panicky," he said. "Farmers think every swine death is due to anthrax."

Most new but unconfirmed reports of anthrax have come from counties where anthrax has been found, Foust said.

So far no cattle have been infected. But Foust said that cattle that mingled in fields with infected pigs are being watched.

A factor that complicates checking of swine feed, Foust said, is that Ohio companies sell outside this state and companies outside Ohio sell to Ohio farmers.

Federal agencies are checking the possibilities bone meal imported from other lands may have carried the anthrax germ.

West Expected To Ask Board For Release

Former Circleville high school basketball coach Dick West is expected to seek his release from teaching duties Tuesday night during Circleville board of education meeting.

West is seeking release from his teaching contract here to join the Dobson-Evans Co. of school suppliers, Columbus.

Superintendent Frank Fischer Monday said he has received West's request for release and expects to present it to the board during Tuesday's session.

The former coach resigned his basketball duties here following the third game of Circleville's 1951-52 season. He has been offered the post of representative with the Dobson-Evans concern with 18 southern Ohio counties in his command.

THE FORMER cage coach added he plans to move his family either to Chillicothe or Jackson when taking the new post. He is the father of two daughters.

Meanwhile, Circleville will be seeking applications for employment of a basketball coach here. After West's resignation last winter, his coaching duties were taken over by Faculty Manager Tom Bennett.

Stoutsville Musicians Get High Ratings

Both solo acts were performed by Patsy Huston, who played piano and sang.

Members of the girls' sextet were Mary Sue Russell, Nancy Goldsberry, Rita Sniff, Miss Huston, Myrtle Paul and Lois Pemberton.

Another act, a cornet solo by Marlene Karr, was awarded a rating of "very good."

Miss Huston and the girls' sextet are to perform again in April during the statewide adjudications in Westerville.

cern in the United States that his nomination might be "put in jeopardy" if he does not return before the Republican convention, in July.

He said, after a series of conferences with Eisenhower over the weekend, that he knew as little about Eisenhower's plans in this respect as he did before he got here.

Hoffman said he had believed for some months that it is possible to get Eisenhower nominated even if he does not return, and that the New Hampshire primary has proved him right.

"It also proves," he went on, "that it takes three times as much work to get the voters to vote for a candidate they can't see or hear. I say that if the 60 million voters in the U. S. could see and hear him for five minutes, he would get 60 million votes."

As for coming home, Hoffman said, "We want him to come whenever he can with a clear conscience."

Asked if he thought Taft could get the nomination on the first ballot, Hoffman replied:

"I don't think Senator Taft is going to win on the first, second third or fourth ballot."

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, also in Paris, said Eisenhower would come home to testify if Congress really needs him, no matter what it might mean to his political future.

The general's supporters want him to return and campaign—and some are saying privately he'll be back in time to make a few speeches before the July convention—but few want him home on a purely non-political visit.

They feel that a return merely to testify before Congress could embarrass him, hurt his chances. On the other hand, if he testified and then made talks explaining his views on foreign and domestic policies, it could help.

5 Findings Totalling $853 Made Against Local School

Findings totalling $853.75 have been made against the Circleville city school district following a recent audit of the district's records.

Largest single finding against the city schools was an $894 item paid over a period of three years to the Pickaway County Agricultural Society.

The payments were made for the use of the Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum for use in physical education.

In the report, however, the finding was made on an attorney general's ruling that "a board of education is without power to extend public funds under their control to support and promote competitive playing of games by picked teams from pupils of public schools."

At the same time, since the city has no adequate gymnasium facilities, local officials said they were told there would be no action resulting from the finding.

THEY ADDED, too, that they have not been told to discontinue the practice in the future.

Another finding was made against the board in connection with a mis-payment.

On Feb. 7, 1950, Board Clerk Virgil Cress issued a $32 check on a voucher supplied by William Flowers for an ash-hauling job. By typographical error, the check was made out to William Fowler, who cashed the check.

Then, on March 7, 1950, another

TANGIER, CITY OF TEN NATIONS, TEEMS WITH SMUGGLING ACTIVITY

By HARRY LUND

Central Press Correspondent

TANGIER, North Africa—This city ruled by 10 nations is noted for smuggling and money changing, but a recent dollar drive is the most striking thing about it. Today merchandise from America is driving other items off the market.

The native population is 125,000 and it has a low standard of living, though more than $10 million in American imports arrive here yearly—compared to $25 million obtained by eight million persons in nearby French Morocco.

On Calle Senmarin, Tangier's commercial street, American products and foreign exchange catch the eye. Europeans come here for stateside shirts, German cameras or dollars it's last at a high rate, of course. Moroccans do the same.

The reason for this influx of foreign buyers is simple—state control of nearby countries. In Spain dollars are sold only by the government so peninsular entrepreneurs buy them black market at Tangier.

Such transactions are costly and if the dollar is 40 pesetas in Madrid it is likely to be 50 in Tangier—in this city Spanish and French money are legal. American products are cheaper here, though you may have to smuggle them abroad.

These activities create a charm which attracts visitors from all over. Tangier is a free port where business is also exempt from government control so flight capital comes here to recoup itself.

In 1906 this International Zone was part of Spanish Morocco, which still surrounds it by land. Ten countries rule Tangier but Great Britain, Spain, the United States and France are most involved. During the war it was re-occupied by Franco.

LITTLE industry or agriculture exist within the Zone's 140 square miles so food must come from Spain and other items from farther abroad. Total yearly imports are about $25 million, with America a principal supplier.

Tangier specializes in smuggling: goods enter harbor, warehouses, are sold in them, and then are clandestinely shipped out again. The predominant Moslem population, a large Jewish colony and Europeans participate in this business.

Banking is a brother to such activities and 85 banks exist here. Some 14 of them are branches of foreign institutions and another 50 companies also do banking. With a table, chair and sufficient capital you can start in business here—perhaps make a fortune.

Seasonal exchange fluctuations, however, raise a hazard. The peseta has varied between 43 and 52 during recent years and other currencies go up and down, too. Therefore, late merchandise may mean a loss, or other calamities may occur.

Free enterprise still attracts all races of men to a city where only a 12 per cent customs tax prevails. Even in hard times Tangier does well, though its exchange rates are set by New York, Zurich and similar financial centers.

Local prosperity is hampered by the lack of production and a low standard Arab population. Yet improvements have come and if the natives still wear sack-cloth and live in thatch huts they are beginning to brush their teeth with American paste.

The principal items brought from the United States in 1949 were tobacco, textiles and vehicles. Despite the stateside merchandise here, only two American companies operate in town—both of them cable units.

The city is a good but not a gaudy tourist stop. Its climate is fine the year around but Tangier lacks night life, and culture. It runs to wine shops or dives and transportation to nearby countries is none too good.

Today its smuggling activities are threatened by Franco who has tightened his southern border controls. Spain has a mail and telegraph system in the city and watches both closely because of its recent drive against contraband.

The International Zone prospers, however, because too many people clamor for foreign merchandise and currency. Tangier is growing daily—its land values have increased 50 times in value during recent years—and one of its principal architects is the United States.

Street Waif Changes Into Movie Queen

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Once upon a time a little girl named Edythe Marriner lived on a street in Brooklyn where no tree grew.

The pavements were her playground. One day when she was seven years old she darted into the street after a floating paper parachute. A car struck her. She spent the next six months in bed, wore crutches for another year.

"It wasn't so bad," she remembers. "I got a lot of presents."

Later she went to a Brooklyn high school. A chum from those days recalls Edythe as "a quiet, friendly girl—but kind of on the mousey side."

Well, Edythe came back for a visit to her old home streets this week, and there wasn't the least thing mousey about her. She looked more like a gardenia petal.

The students jammed into her old high school auditorium to see her, and when she signed their autograph books she didn't write "Edythe Marriner." She wrote "Susan Hayward."

Under this name the slender, red-haired Brooklyn girl has made 31 films in Hollywood.

She talked about her pitfall days in Flatbush.

"The thing I remember most is that we didn't tell time by calendars," she said. "There was the 'impy' season when you played marbles—we called them 'impies.'"

"There was pitch penny season, steal-ice-from-the-ice-wagon season, singing-on-the-stoop season, bottle top season, when everybody collected and traded bottle tops."

"Oh, and there was baseball card season, when we collected the pictures of baseball players, and chase-the-paper-parachute season, and kite-flying season. My father—he worked in a subway station—loved to build all kinds of kites. Once we had four kites up at the same time."

But Miss Hayward's favorite was selling-old-newspapers - to the junkman season.

"You slipped as many flat rocks as you could in between the layers of papers to make them weigh more," she laughed. "And if a rock slipped out, the junkman got mad and chased you out of his yard."

Another golden event was Thanksgiving-singing season. The children dressed in old clothes and sang beneath tenement windows. The grownups were supposed to toss down coins in appreciation.

"Every once in a while some old meanie would throw down heated pennies," she said, "and when we ran to pick them up they'd burn our fingers."

Miss Hayward looked pensive.

"These are games my kids will never know," she said. "They play school games. Maybe that's better. But sometimes I wonder if they have the same fun I did, growing up in Brooklyn."

Tax-Filing Date Hikes Bank Loans

CLEVELAND, March 17—(AP)—Clevelanders in unprecedented numbers are borrowing money to pay what they owe on their income tax, banks and loan companies report.

Loan officers said until tax time came up, their business was rather bad. The reason for the rush, they said, was: (1) the increase in tax rate in late 1951, and (2) failure of a number of persons to estimate their income at a high enough level. Most were in the $3,000-$6,000 bracket.

Nature produces new soil at rate of about one inch in 500 years.

Employers Rap Social Security

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 17—(AP)—Viven Kellems, Stonington, Conn., industrialist, says she and four other small employers have written to the secretary of the treasury, protesting the Social Security law.

At a mass meeting of "Liberty Belles" she produced facsimiles of the letters in which all protest payment of Social Security contributions and claimed the law is unconstitutional. Two of the letter writers are Ohioans, John F. Andrews of Beach City, an auctioneer, and Ralph Bly of Shelby, a wholesale auto replacement parts executive, Miss Kellems said.

A Statement Concerning the BAHAI FAITH

The Baha'i Faith does not seek to draw the follower of any religion away from his own faith. In reality, a study of this World Religion intensifies the basic principles of any belief, broadening the outlook of those who investigate its truths into a universal viewpoint.

Followers of Baha'u'llah are at all times willing and happy to explain the principles of their religion, but they never ask others to become adherents of the Baha'i Faith. This is because membership is based on the requirement of personal investigation of truth. This personal initiative on the part of any interested person is a primary requisite for further study.

Groups of neighbors or friends who wish to know more about the faith often assemble in private homes where teachers of the faith come to them, on invitation, to explain the principles of their religion. These Baha'is teach freely; no cost, obligation or service is asked of any person. If, after receiving information in regard to the faith, a person wishes to discontinue investigation, his decision is graciously accepted as final, and no questions are asked.

This teaching service is given by Baha'is in a spirit of consecration to the cause of world peace and brotherhood.

SCIATIC SIR THOMAS

IT FORMERLY was held that a man's gout was responsible for a grouchy attitude toward life. Later, people blamed all irritable conditions upon the liver.

Now along comes Sir Thomas Beecham, British symphony conductor, suffering from sciatica, and gripes about American movie mood music. He grumbles that it is ridiculous, distracting music—and noisy. He goes so far as to say it's more painful than his sciatica.

Sir Thomas, of course would never admit that perhaps his neuritic condition is making him grumpy.

Anyway fortunately or unfortunately, Sir Thomas' opinions on this subject will make little impression upon the American people. The average movie-goers in this country is scarcely aware of mood music—not until it's divorced from the sound track and issued on records.

The purpose of mood music is just that—to create or help a mood but not to protrude beyond its sphere of influence. When mood music becomes more important than the art with which it is coupled, it defeats its purpose. And since the American public is rarely conscious of mood music in the theater, what's the gripe?

Maybe Sir Thomas—for the sake of his sciatica—should keep away from American movies. It might help his disposition.

WHAT WILL DIXIE DO?

WHAT THE Democratic South will do when the chips are down after the national conventions is the subject of much conjecture. If the Democratic convention nominates Truman or a Trumanite, there is a strong possibility Senator Richard Russell of Georgia will run in an attempt to deprive the Democratic ticket of all the Southern electoral votes.

Southern strategists estimate they have 71 electoral votes in the bag and will have 128 if Texas, North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas jump on the anti-Truman bandwagon. There would be still more if some of the border states also went for Russell.

If Taft, as the GOP nominee, could not then get a majority of the electoral votes, the election would go into the House of Representatives, each state voting as a unit and having one vote. In the trading, the South would be in an advantageous position.

If the Dixie Democrats decide to go all the way, Truman's decision whether to run or not could be strongly influenced by this development.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The great productive capacity of the United States has to a large degree been built up by an economic process called variously "consumer credit," or "installment buying." This is a method of purchasing in advance of saving, so that the consumer is actually in possession of the commodity and able to use it while he is paying for it.

For instance, if a family waited until it had accumulated enough money to buy an automobile, it might never have bought one. The money might have been spent or dissipated. In a word, consumer credit is a practical form of savings. The individual "saves" commodities instead of cash.

Throughout the years of the depression, it was found that the losses on this type of business were negligible. The consumer paid as best he could, sometimes delaying payments but in the end paying. This experience over bad years encouraged an increasing number of businesses to accept consumer credit as a sound process.

In August 1941, the government entered upon active control of consumer credit and delegated the function to the Federal Reserve System, which issued "Regulation W," and entered upon the business of licensing firms engaging in this process. The Federal Reserve System polices installment buying, installment loans, consumer credit—whatever you call it.

The Federal Reserve decides the terms and nature of consumer credit and thereby is a factor not only in the final price paid (which includes interest on the borrowed money) but the velocity of the movement of goods.

For instance, it was decided that 15 percent is to be the down payment on such items as radios, television, vacuum cleaners, furniture, refrigerators, etc.; one-third is down payment on new automobiles.

All consumer credit payments must be completed in 18 months. The creditor has no option. Let us say that the breadwinner of a family dies and his widow comes to the creditor and asks for three months' grace to straighten out her affairs. The creditor may be willing to grant the extension because he is a decent, fine person and not a Shylock.

But the Federal Reserve intervenes and demands what is, in effect, a pauper's oath. The individual has to swear to the revised state of his life. All human relations are eliminated. The widow can no longer go about saying what a fine man Mr. Smith is—she let her off the hook for three months. Smith can now only give her a paper to fill out and sign.

The piece of paper is a one-sheet document, mimeographed on two sides. First comes an explanation which requires a legal adviser because it has all kinds of unclear words.

Then comes "Record of Action Taken"—(To be filled in and signed by the registrant if a renewal, revision, consolidation, or refinancing is granted on the basis of this statement of changed conditions.)

Then, on the other side, comes "statement of changed conditions."

Helping Victims of Paralytic Strokes to Help Themselves

By HERMAN N. DUNDESEN, M.D.

MANY people who have had paralytic strokes can regain the use of hands and limbs with the proper treatment and physiotherapy. But, of course, all this treatment must be carried out under the direction of a doctor to obtain the best results.

Such people should be as active as possible, using one hand when they cannot use two. Special implements are made to help them do this.

Wrong Attitude

Too often a patient with a paralytic stroke feels he is doomed for life and will never regain his normal activity. Not only is this attitude wrong, but it keeps him from making the real progress possible for him. That is why it is so important to help these patients develop a will to get well, and believe in their ability to help themselves.

Of course, some patients may not recover the use of their limbs as completely as others; some may not recover at all. But effort is an extremely important factor in any improvement. This effort is important in everyday activities, which may give much trouble to a person who has had a stroke.

Showers Recommended

An example of a difficult task for one who has had a stroke is getting in and out of a bathtub. Therefore, showers are recommended instead of tub baths. It may be well to put a small bench or chair in the shower stall so that the patient may wash himself more easily while showering. If an attack has paralyzed the leg and arm on the same side, the afflicted person should endeavor to do things without using these parts.

It is helpful if the patient does not have fastenings on his clothing that require the use of both hands. Buttons and snaps are usually easier to manage than zippers. Pre-tied elastic shoe laces enable the person to put on his shoes with one hand. Combination knife-and-fork sets are also available. They usually have a curved blade, since a rocking motion is easier than the straight sawing motion of a regular knife.

Writing Problem

Writing may be a problem if the writing hand is paralyzed. Many people can learn to write with the other hand. If this gives difficulty, it may be found convenient to use a typewriter with a one-hand keyboard.

The paralyzed housewife should carry on a healthful program of household utensils as on the market or can be made easily. There are also patented devices for holding playing cards.

For those unable to walk, special wheel chairs with one-arm drives and brakes and other helpful features are available.

A stroke may get you down, but don't let it keep you down!

DILEMMA — The Stevenson development may be a major factor in the Democrats' 1952 Presidential dilemma, to wit:

It may force Truman to run again, although his inclinations seem to be for retirement.

It may lead to White House support of Senator Kerr, although his vote-getting ability in northern cities and states is questioned.

DIFFICULTIES — It may, strangely, result in a Presidential attempt to avoid a party split by getting behind Senator "Dick" Russell of Georgia, for whom Truman has both friendship and admiration.

Such a movement, however, would require a solution of the Civil Rights problem that would not alienate liberal and racial groups in the great cities. Senator Kefauver's victory in New Hampshire, of course, will entitle him to serious consideration by the Democratic bosses, although he is heartily disliked at the White House.

"WE SEEM to have been missing each other all day," Kaiming greeted him as Liddell entered. He waved the detective to a chair. "Was there something important you wanted me for?"

Liddell sank into the chair, shook his head. "Returning your call. By the way, how did you know where to find me?"

Kaiming shrugged, smiled. "You have been making inquiries in Chinatown. Naturally, that comes to my ears."

Liddell nodded grimly. "If I had been able to reach you, I wouldn't have had to go through all the motions."

"You sound tired. Perhaps if we had some refreshments?" Kaiming clapped his hands and the doll-like little Chinese girl stepped into a room. "Some bourbon and water, Fah Soo," Kaiming told her.

Fah Soo bowed her head slightly, smiled at Liddell, stepped back through the concealed door in the paneling.

"Now, perhaps you would like to tell me what you have been trying to find in Chinatown?" Kaiming suggested. He found a cigarette, stuck it in his holder, tilted it from the corner of his mouth.

"I've been trying to find where the Fan Tan game is going on," Liddell growled. "Do you know?"

Kaiming frowned slightly, snapped his lighter into flame, touched it to the end of his cigarette. "I know. But I do not think it would be wise for you to attempt to crash it."

"Couldn't you okay me through?"

The long leader shook his head. "Unfortunately, no. Let me explain. You know something of long organization? You may know that today our tong has not the power here in the East that it enjoys in the West where our mutual friend Eddie Sung is all powerful."

Kaiming nodded. "Not very long ago, the tong here waged a bloody and futile war. We were not victorious. We were almost destroyed. Had it not been for the help of our brother branches in other cities, our tong would have been smashed." He tapped the end of the cigarette holder against his teeth. "The victors have taken the spoils. They run the Fan Tan, they have the choice locations for their activities."

Liddell rubbed at the side of his jaw. "Top dog takes over the juiciest territory, leaves the crumbs for the others, eh?"

"It has been that way until now," Kaiming told him softly. "It will not always be that way."

"I wouldn't want you to start a tong war just to get me into a Fan Tan set-up," Liddell growled.

Kaiming went through the motions of a smile. "I gather from your eagerness to get into this Fan Tan game that something has happened?"

Liddell nodded. "Plenty." He waited while the girl returned, placed a bottle, some glasses and ice on the table, gilded back through the door. "I think I've found who's behind the whole set-up."

"Wonderful. Who is it?"

"Ceria. And a woman named Goldy, a fortune teller."

Kaiming considered it. "You have enough to go to the police?"

Liddell shook his head. "Not until I've been able to talk to Goldy. That's why I want to talk to find where the Fan Tan game is."

Liddell reached for his glass. "His bodyguard cut Brin's throat. I had to kill the bodyguard in self defense."

"I see." There was no change in Kaiming's expression. His dark eyes studied Liddell, then dropped as the private detective returned his gaze. "And all this killing is connected with the case on which you are working?"

"They're all part of the same pattern."

Kaiming sighed. "It seems difficult for me to see how the death of a friendless and unknown Chinese could be connected with the deaths of a society figure and a hired gunman."

"You'll have to take my word for it."

Kaiming shrugged. "As you say. But suppose this man who told you where the woman is hiding lied to you?"

Liddell shook his head. "He wouldn't. I had too much of a lever on him."

"Brin?" Kaiming shrugged. "According to the newspapers he was wanted by the police for the murder of Lunfar. What has such a man to lose?"

"Nothing. But he had plenty to gain."

"Such as?"

Liddell said, "I could have cleared him of that murder charge. Brin didn't kill Lunfar."

Kaiming raised his eyebrows. "But the gun. It had his fingerprints on it. The police identified him as the killer."

"He was framed. I was the only one who could prove it. So we made a deal. He told me where Goldy was. I was going to square him with the cops."

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, March 17 — Governor Adlai E. Stevenson's close association with Alger Hiss may eliminate him as a possible Democratic Presidential nominee, although he had appeared to be the favorite of President Truman and the "liberal" faction of the party until recently.

Together with Supreme Court Justices Frankfurter and Reed, and Roving Ambassador Philip Jessup, the Illinois Governor testified to the good character, the veracity and the loyalty of the convicted perjurer in the first trial.

Unlike the two jurists, who gave their testimony in person, Governor Stevenson's praise of Hiss as a faithful public servant took the form of a deposition.

EMBARRASSING — Although Governor Stevenson's loyalty and anti-Communist feelings are unquestioned, it might be embarrassing to name such a friend of the jailed traitor as head of the ticket.

It would revive campaign discussion of Truman's "red herding" comment on the Hiss inquiry, and of Secretary Acheson's statement that he "would not turn his back on Hiss," even after the latter's conviction.

It just would not be smart, practical politics to hand the G.O.P. such an opportunity to keep alive the "Communist issue." Both friends and foes of the Illinoisan, who have discussed the question, seem to be agreed on that point.

ASSOCIATION — Governor Stevenson's courtroom endorsement of Hiss was born of their close association during the first years of Franklin D. Roosevelt's "new deal," as well as through the war and postwar periods. This factor makes prospective nomination of the Illinois executive especially embarrassing.

Stevenson was counsel to the Agricultural Adjustment Agency in 1933 and 1934. It was in Agriculture during this very period, according to testimony, that Harold Ware formed the first Communist cell in the government, with Hiss, John Abt, Lee Pressman and others as members.

In short, the Ware group was the nucleus of the eventual conspiracy that landed Hiss in a federal prison.

DECEIVED — Stevenson served as special assistant to the Secretary of State in 1945, when Hiss had attained such power that he was an adviser to F.D.R. at the sell-out Yalta Conference.

Subsequently, Stevenson was present at the organization of the United Nations in San Francisco, where Hiss ran the works, and at a U.N. session in London in 1945 and 1946.

It is true that Hiss fooled everybody but Whittaker Chambers, his former "Commie" pals and the FBI during this period. It is not surprising that Governor Stevenson was similarly deceived.

Nevertheless, Truman and Democratic leaders are understandably hesitant now about the Governor's ballot-box availability.

CHARGE — The political star of Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma has shone more brightly since this Stevenson discovery, assuming that President Truman refuses to run. Senator Kerr says that he will back out if the President wants another term, but he is in the race for keeps otherwise.

Kerr opponents, and he has quite a few in his own party, are trying to knock him down. They charge that he opposed Alfred E. Smith in 1928, an indictment which would cost him votes in certain populous sections and cities. If true, it would make him a political liability as head of the ticket.

Senator Kerr denies the indictment. Although Oklahoma was then a Klan-ridden state, and although many Oklahoma Demo-

SCIATIC SIR THOMAS

IT FORMERLY was held that a man's gout was responsible for a grouchy attitude toward life. Later, people blamed all irritable conditions upon the liver.

Now along comes Sir Thomas Beecham, British symphony conductor, suffering from sciatica, and gripes about American movie mood music. He grumbles that it is ridiculous, distracting music—and noisy. He goes so far as to say it's more painful than his sciatica.

Sir Thomas, of course would never admit that perhaps his neuritic condition is making him grumpy.

Anyway fortunately or unfortunately, Sir Thomas' opinions on this subject will make little impression upon the American people. The average movie-goers in this country is scarcely aware of mood music—not until it's divorced from the sound track and issued on records.

The purpose of mood music is just that—to create or help a mood but not to protrude beyond its sphere of influence. When mood music becomes more important than the art with which it is coupled, it defeats its purpose. And since the American public is rarely conscious of mood music in the theater, what's the gripe?

Maybe Sir Thomas—for the sake of his sciatica—should keep away from American movies. It might help his disposition.

WHAT WILL DIXIE DO?

WHAT THE Democratic South will do when the chips are down after the national conventions is the subject of much conjecture. If the Democratic convention nominates Truman or a Trumanite, there is a strong possibility Senator Richard Russell of Georgia will run in an attempt to deprive the Democratic ticket of all the Southern electoral votes.

Southern strategists estimate they have 71 electoral votes in the bag and will have 128 if Texas, North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas jump on the anti-Truman bandwagon. There would be still more if some of the border states also went for Russell.

If Taft, as the GOP nominee, could not then get a majority of the electoral votes, the election would go into the House of Representatives, each state voting as a unit and having one vote. In the trading, the South would be in an advantageous position.

If the Dixie Democrats decide to go all the way, Truman's decision whether to run or not could be strongly influenced by this development.

These Days

The great productive capacity of the United States has to a large degree been built up by an economic process called variously "consumer credit," or "installment buying." This is a method of purchasing in advance of saving, so that the consumer is actually in possession of the commodity and able to use it while he is paying for it.

For instance, if a family waited until it had accumulated enough money to buy an automobile, it might never have bought one. The money might have been spent or dissipated. In a word, consumer credit is a practical form of savings. The individual "saves" commodities instead of cash.

Throughout the years of the depression, it was found that the losses on this type of business were negligible. The consumer paid as best he could, sometimes delaying payments but in the end paying. This experience over bad years encouraged an increasing number of businesses to accept consumer credit as a sound process.

In August 1941, the government entered upon active control of consumer credit and delegated the function to the Federal Reserve System, which issued "Regulation W," and entered upon the business of licensing firms engaging in this process. The Federal Reserve System polices installment buying, installment loans, consumer credit—whatever you call it.

The Federal Reserve decides the terms and nature of consumer credit and thereby is a factor not only in the final price paid (which includes interest on the borrowed money) but the velocity of the movement of goods.

For instance, it was decided that 15 percent is to be the down payment on such items as radios, television, vacuum cleaners, furniture, refrigerators, etc.; one-third is down payment on new automobiles.

All consumer credit payments must be completed in 18 months.

The creditor has no option. Let us say that the breadwinner of a family dies and his widow comes to the creditor and asks for three months' grace to straighten out her affairs. The creditor may be willing to grant the extension because he is a decent, fine person and not a Shylock.

"You'll have to take my word for it."

Kaiming shrugged. "As you say. But suppose this man who told you where the woman is hiding lied to you?"

Liddell shook his head. "He wouldn't. I had too much of a lever on him."

"Brin?" Kaiming shrugged. "According to the newspapers he was wanted by the police for the murder of Lunfar. What has such a man to lose?"

"Nothing. But he had plenty to gain."

"Such as?"

Liddell said, "I could have cleared him of that murder charge. Brin didn't kill Lunfar."

Kaiming raised his eyebrows. "But the gun. It had his fingerprints on it. The police identified him as the killer."

"He was framed. I was the only one who could prove it, so we made a deal. He told me where Goldy was. I was going to square him with the cops."

His first book, Contes a Ninon, published in 1864, attracted some attention, so in 1866 he decided to abandon clerical and devote himself to literature. He was a vigorous and aggressive newspaper critic on literature and his articles created considerable interest, as did his next novel, Therese Raquin. A series of novels, the history of a family, contained a scientific study of heredity. This series brought him moderate, but not popular success. Then came L'Assommoir, an epic of drink—and his fortune was made. Other powerful novels followed, including a series of romances on cities—Lourdes, Rome, Paris. On a September morning in 1902, he was found dead in the bedroom of his Paris home, accidentally asphyxiated by fumes from a defective flue. He had just completed a novel titled Verite. news behind the news

WASHINGTON, March 17 — Governor Adlai E. Stevenson's close association with Alger Hiss may eliminate him as a possible Democratic Presidential nominee, although he had appeared to be the favorite of President Truman and the "liberal" faction of the party until recently.

Together with Supreme Court Justices Frankfurter and Reed, and Roving Ambassador Philip Jessup, the Illinois Governor testified to the good character, the veracity and the loyalty of the convicted perjurer in the first trial.

Unlike the two jurists, who gave their testimony in person, Governor Stevenson's praise of Hiss as a faithful public servant took the form of a deposition.

EMBARRASSING — Although Governor Stevenson's loyalty and anti-Communist feelings are unquestioned, it might be embarrassing to name such a friend of the jailed traitor as head of the ticket.

It would revive campaign discussion of Truman's "red herding" comment on the Hiss inquiry, and of Secretary Acheson's statement that he "would not turn his back on Hiss," even after the latter's conviction.

It just would not be smart, practical politics to hand the G.O.P. such an opportunity to keep alive the "Communist issue." Both friends and foes of the Illinois, who have discussed the question, seem to be agreed on that point.

ASSOCIATION — Governor Stevenson's courtroom endorsement of Hiss was born of their close association during the first years of Franklin D. Roosevelt's "new deal," as well as through the war and postwar periods. This factor makes prospective nomination of the Illinois executive especially embarrassing.

Stevenson was counsel to the Agricultural Adjustment Agency in 1933 and 1934. It was in Agriculture during this very period, according to testimony, that Harold Ware formed the first Communist cell in the government, with Hiss, John Aht, Lee Pressman and others as members.

In short, the Ware group was the nucleus of the eventual conspiracy that landed Hiss in a federal prison.

DECEIVED — Stevenson served as special assistant to the Secretary of State in 1945, when Hiss had attained such power that he was an adviser to F.D.R. at the sell-out Yalta Conference.

Subsequently, Stevenson was present at the organization of the United Nations in San Francisco, where Hiss ran the works, and at a U.N. session in London in 1945 and 1946.

It is true that Hiss fooled everybody but Whittaker Chambers, his former "Commie" pals and the FBI during this period. It is not surprising that Governor Stevenson was similarly deceived.

Nevertheless, Truman and Democratic leaders are understandably hesitant now about the Governor's ballot-box availability.

CHARGE — The political star of Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma has shone more brightly since this Stevenson discovery, assuming that President Truman refuses to run. Senator Kerr says that he will back out if the President wants another term, but he is in the race for keeps otherwise.

Kerr opponents, and he has quite a few in his own party, are trying to knock him down. They charge that he opposed Alfred E. Smith in 1928, an indictment which would cost him votes in certain populous sections and cities. If true, it would make him a political liability as head of the ticket.

Senator Kerr denies the indictment. Although Oklahoma was then a Klan-ridden state, and although many Oklahoma Democrats fought Smith, he says that he backed the ticket. In fact, he has offered a prize of $1,000 to anybody who can prove the contrary, and he still has the $1,000.

Carney Expects To Top DiSalle

Cleveland Feels Truman's New Hampshire Loss To Help

COLUMBUS, March 17 — (P)—Cleveland James M. Carney got a big lift from the New Hampshire primary in his race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator in Ohio.

Carney figures the Truman failure there gives his major opponent in Ohio's May 6 primary something to worry about. That's because Michael V. DiSalle, who quit as federal price controller to run for senator, wears the Truman label.

The President wished DiSalle well in his campaign when he left Washington for his home in Toledo. The blessing could backfire if Truman stands for reelection and Democrats turn from him as they did in New Hampshire.

Carney isn't as well known over the state as DiSalle, but his name carries vote - getting magic in Cleveland, a Democratic stronghold. Carney expects to get up-wards of a 50,000-vote plurality in Cuyahoga County. He made the estimate while in Columbus to set up his state headquarters.

HE IS WORKING to get enough votes in the rest of the state to prevent DiSalle from overcoming Carney's anticipated lead in his home county.

DiSalle told newsmen recently that things looked so good for him so early in the campaign that he was scared. He referred to the state picture outside Cuyahoga County. DiSalle sought the nomination unsuccessfully in 1950.

He has a couple of heavy Cleveland vote-getters in his corner. Gov. Frank J. Lausche, former Cleveland mayor, urged both DiSalle and Truman to run this year. Mayor Thomas A. Burke is managing DiSalle's campaign in the county.

But Carney has the county Democratic organization, headed by Ray T. Miller, in his corner. And he expects active support from county officials and all but one of Cleveland's 23 councilmen.

Carney also reports numerous offers of help from Democrats throughout the state although DiSalle claims the backing of most county chairmen.

Some Democrats figure Carney would be a tougher candidate than DiSalle against Sen. John W. Bricker in the November election. Bricker is unopposed for the Republican renomination.

Carney and DiSalle have two other primary opponents. They are George L. Mark of Cleveland, a comparative unknown, and John W. Donahey of Hudson, son of the late governor and U. S. Senator A. Vic Donahey of Columbus.

Earliest known inhabitants of Nova Scotia were the Mimac Indians.

Federal Budget Brings Debate

COLUMBUS, March 17 — (P)—Two economists disagreed Sunday on the necessity for the huge federal budget proposed by the Truman administration.

Leo Wolman, professor of economics at Columbia University, said it should be cut, because it would force taxes too high. Roy Blough, a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, defended the budget. He said it is an "irresponsible statement" to say that as much as $8 million could be trimmed from non-military spending. Blough agreed that taxes are high, but said our standard of living continues to rise anyway.

I Lost 30 Lbs. Thanks to Rennel I feel Wonderful

"Before taking Rennel I was not only overweight, but I felt so tired and heavy on my feet. It seemed I had no ambition," writes Mrs. O. Ridgely, Box 194, Pleasant City, Ohio. "Since I have been taking Rennel I have lost 30 lbs. and I don't have that tired or heavy feeling any more. I have recommended Rennel to many of my friends because I truly feel wonderful now." It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain 4 ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate at your druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two table-spoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it—you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. Insist on genuine Rennel.

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

The need for folding money is eternal... for new clothes, dates and school games to say nothing of the weekly movie and soda.

High school boys and college students have discovered many ways to earn money for weekly fun or a big school dance and some, with regular Saturday jobs, are wisely saving some of their self-earned green backs for college expenses. You'll "learn while you earn" and have more business if you will think more about doing a good, thorough job than of how high a rate you can charge. Here are some of their money making ideas:

Many boys find weekend jobs at the corner gas station where there's seldom a dull moment and you can't help making new friends and acquaintances, both masculine and feminine. Some boys choose the work just for extra cash, others because they have mechanical engineering ambitions and this is a step in the right direction.

House cleaning jobs are another possibility for Saturdays. Householders are glad to have a careful crew of high schoolers take over the vacuuming, floor waxing and blind cleaning jobs of large houses.

Painting jobs are another idea if you're handy with the stuff. Washing cars and windows can be fitted conveniently into your free time without interfering with studies. One boy makes the rounds in his neighborhood to put out and take in ash cans once a week. Tutoring is popular with boys who have top grades in math and science.

WASHINGTON, March 17 — (AP)—Except for an occasional lively outburst—like "You're a meatball"—smoking out the Communist Party has been a dreary job which will take years to finish.

It was understood the job couldn't be speedy when Congress in the fall of 1950 passed, and then re-passed over President Truman's veto, a law intended to crack down on Communist activities in many directions.

This story deals with only one phase of it: Forcing the Communist Party to register as a Communist-action outfit—meaning, a Moscow agent—and list its sources of income, with the names of its leaders and members.

Ever since April 1951 the Justice Department has been presenting evidence to the five-member Subversive Activities Control Board, appointed by the President, to prove the Communist Party is a Moscow agent.

THE BOARD itself was appointed Oct. 23, 1950, one month after the law was passed. But the board couldn't start its hearings until the following April.

The Justice Department needed time to gather evidence, in the form of documents and witnesses, and the Communists tried to wreck the machinery by seeking court injunctions which were denied.

So far the government lawyers have offered a ton of documents and 19 witnesses and still has six more witnesses to bring before the board to show the party is working for Moscow.

The government hopes to finish its case by May. Then it's the party's turn to produce evidence to refute the Justice Department. It could use a year or two doing just that.

But here in Washington it's thought the party, whose top leaders are in jail or fugitives, may not require more than a couple of months to offer evidence in its own defense to the board.

Then the board will require more time, months probably, to reach a decision. If the board agrees with the attorney general that the party is taking orders from Moscow and tells it to register, then—

The party can appeal to the U. S. Court of Appeals to overturn the board. If it loses there, the party can appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court. All that will take many months.

ASSUMING THE board rules against the party, it's not expected that a decision from the Supreme Court can be expected before late in 1953, at the earliest.

Once in awhile the hearings have been enlivened by sharp exchanges between the lawyers. A couple of weeks ago Vito Marcantonio, lawyer for the Communists, and Frank Denunzio, Justice Department lawyer, shouted "you're a meatball" at each other.

Underlying all this is a question still unanswered because it hasn't become a problem yet: Suppose in the end, if the Supreme Court says the party must register, the party dissolves and reappears under another name, as the Communist Party in Canada did. Will the government have to go through this all over again?

Sheep Program To Be Heard

Past and present, relative to the future in lambs and wool, will be reviewed for Pickaway County farmers, March 18 on the sheep day program of Farm and Home Week in Ohio State university.

At 2 p. m., Richard W. Rose of Swift and Co., Chicago, will point out what has brought about reduced lamb numbers in the United States during the last 10 years. He also will describe advantages the sheep industry provides the national economy and Ohio farmers.

Three Ohio farmers who know the advantages of raising sheep also will be on the program. They will tell how they grossed more than $58 per ewe in 1951 to win flock production awards.

County Sales Seen Rising

Following a marked decrease a week earlier, business in Pickaway County rose above average during the week ending March 1.

According to a report of sales of prepaid tax stamps in the county, local businesses purchased $5,766.90 worth of stamps here during the week ending March 1, 1952, while during a corresponding period last year sales were only $5,558.26.

Using sale of the tax stamps as an index, this means merchants sold more goods during the period this year than in a corresponding period last year.

In all, however, the statewide sales have still fallen below the figures of last year. During the week ending March 1 this year, state totals were only $2,809,186, while last year the sales totalled $3,172,743.

As a whole, throughout Ohio, food sales increased during the period while sales in almost every other category have faltered in comparison with sales made during a similar period in 1951.

Man Shoots Son For 'Burglar'

CLEVELAND, March 17 — (AP)—Mistaking him for a burglar, Dan Zafaratos, 61, shot his son, Sam, 16, in the right leg Sunday night. Police said the boy was missing from Columbus State School and that his father did not know this. Told that there were noises in the basement, Zafaratos said he called down, then fired.

It was only then, he said, that Sam cried out: "Papa." The boy was treated in Glenville Hospital for a wound below the knee.

Wreck Happens Luckily On Sunday

WARREN, March 17 — (AP)—Luckily, it was Sunday.

The cars also damaged two trucks and an automobile. The cars wound up in a lot owned by the Warren Wrecking Service.

WHAT ARE TODAY'S FACTS ABOUT NEW CAR ENGINES AND POWER STEERING?

LAST YEAR Chrysler introduced its new FirePower V-8 engine, and America's first passenger car full-time power steering. Both new ideas "took hold" in a big way.

Today, others are announcing "new engines" and "power steering" . . . but with some basic differences worth keeping in mind if you're buying a new car.

First: about "new engines." The fact is, a really new engine design happens only once in a great while. It did happen in the FirePower V-8. Its 180 h.p. was only incidental to its basic new design. Its key idea is a hemispherical combustion chamber, which makes even non-premium gasoline develop more usable power than other designs can get from premium fuel.

Only Chrysler engineering has so far mastered this design. Several cars do have some power increase, in terms of previous designs. The important fact is that FirePower is not a "warmed-over" engine, but brand new in performance, construction, and efficiency.

In power steering, too, there are basic differences. Chrysler uses hydraulic power, always in effect, to do two things. First, it does 4/5 the steering work as you turn the wheel. Second, we've cut the amount of wheel turn needed by over 1/3.

Parking or cruising, you get more and easier control than ever before. In sand, snow, or ruts, the hydraulic power is always there to keep the front wheels from "steering back" at you.

You get the same amount and feel of control all the time . . . full-time ease and full-time safety.

Actually, the differences, both in engine performance and in steering safety and ease are impossible to put in words . . . but just as impossible not to feel the moment you get into a Chrysler and drive it! Why not see your Chrysler dealer and do that, soon?

College Cage Tournery Play Being Shifted

NEW YORK, March 17 — (AP)—Basketball's national championship play shifts to the NCAA and AAU competition this week with six berth in the Olympic tryouts at stake.

The NCAA opens its elimination play Friday in four cities with 16 teams, 10 of them conference champions, battling for the right to move on to Seattle for the semifinals and finals March 25 and 26.

The winner and runnerup will qualify for the Olympic trials which get underway in Kansas City and New York March 29.

From the AAU tournament, which opened Sunday in Denver, will come four more teams for the Olympic competition.

LaSalle's youthful, swashbuckling Explorers were the first to qualify for a spot in the Olympic trials. They soundly whipped Dayton, 75-64, in the National Invitation Tournament finals Saturday in Madison Square Garden.

AND A SHORT while later they were joined by Southwest Missouri State of Springfield which scored a 73-64 triumph over Murray (Ky.) State in the NAIB final in Kansas City.

Here's how the NCAA will line up for the first round with the quarter-finals scheduled for the same cities on Saturday:

Eastern regional—
RALEIGH, N. C.—Kentucky vs Penn State, and North Carolina State vs St. John's.

CHICAGO— Illinois vs Dayton, and Princeton vs Duquesne.

Western regional—
KANSAS CITY—Kansas vs Texas Christian, and St. Louis vs New Mexico A. & M.

Corvallis, Ore.—UCLA vs Santa Clara, and Wyoming vs Oklahoma City.

Rookies Cost Much Moola

NEW YORK—P—The New York Yankees have three bonus rookies on their roster whose total cost to the front office was $165,000.

Andy Carey, a third base aspirant, was signed for $65,000 after leaving St. Mary's College. Kal Segrist, who is being converted to a first sacker, and Ed Cereghino, right-handed pitcher, got $50,000 each for placing their names on the Yankee dotted line.

Kiner Inks Buc Pact For $75,000

SAN BERNARDINO, March 17 — (P)—Ralph Kiner, the Pittsburgh Pirate homerun slugger, has reason to smile this St. Patrick's Day—he's negotiated a new one-year contract for $75,000—making him the third highest paid player in the majors.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox have better contracts than the Buc slugger. Musial is reported to be receiving $80,000 this season while Williams has signed for an estimated $100,000. But Williams may not draw much—he's slated for Marine Corps duty if he can pass the physical exam.

Hi, Cousin

CINCINNATI—P—Ken Raffensberger, ace left-hander for the Cincinnati Reds, is certainly glad that the team has acquired Andy Seminick in a trade with the Phillies. Seminick has always been a nemesis for Kiner.

Andy has slugged nine homers off Raffy since the hurler has worn a Redleg uniform.

Redlegs Hope Blackie's Showing To Be Better Than Wehmeier's

TAMPA, Fla., March 17 — (P)—Ewell Blackwell, figured as usual as the No. 1 man on the Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff, was due for a five-inning pitching chore Monday in a game between the Redlegs and the Philadelphia Athletics.

He'll do that unless the A's take too great a liking to his assortment of pitches.

That's what happened to Herman Wehmeier Sunday against the Boston Red Sox. The Sox had a field day against Herman, winding up with a 10 to 6 victory.

Cleveland's usually slow-starting pitchers already are looking about the way they looked last season: Terrific.

Bob Feller unlimbered his arm competitively for the first time Sunday against the San Francisco Seals, and pitched three scoreless innings with only one hit.

Bob Lemon has hurled nine straight zero innings, early Wynn and Mike Garcia each pitched three-inning shutouts Sunday.

ALL TOLD, Cleveland pitchers, until the rookies got on the mound Sunday, had pitched 26 consecutive scoreless innings. Last year, the pitchers allowed an average of 11 runs a game exhibitions, then turned into the best in baseball during the regular season.

If ever Manager Red Rolfe of the Detroit Tigers could use a pitcher—especially Hal Newhouser—this is the year.

In 1951, just three Tiger elbowers managed to break into double figures in the win column, and of those Virgil Trucks was high man with 13. Bob Cain had 12 and Fred Hutchinson 10.

So that's where Newhouser comes in. He's 30 years old now, but Rolfe figures that if he could regain some of his old form—the form that won him 29 games in 1944—the Tigers might make a showing.

Since his arm began to ail him, Newhouser has been of little use to the Bengals and last year wound up with 6-6.

Hal went six innings against the Washington Senators Sunday and gave Rolfe absolutely no solace. He was batted for nine hits and all

U.S. Marines Land At Tripoli Again
TRIPOLI, Libya.—The U.S. Marines are back on the shores of Tripoli.

This time they didn't have to fight their way through a Mediterranean fleet of 18th century pirate ships. They landed unarmed and in civilian clothes in a luxurious four-engine passenger plane.

Six are here. They're on a peaceful mission as security guards at the U.S. legation. They don't wear uniforms and don't carry guns. They stand guard duty, act as couriers and carry out other routine jobs.

Japan Sales Lead In Pakistan Market

NEW YORK, March 17.—Basketball's national championship play shifts to the NCAA and AAU competition this week with six berth in the Olympic tryouts at stake.

The NCAA opens its elimination play Friday in four cities with 16 teams, 10 of them conference champions, battling for the right to move on to Seattle for the semifinals and finals March 25 and 26.

The winner and runnerup will qualify for the Olympic trials which get underway in Kansas City and New York March 29.

From the AAU tournament, which opened Sunday in Denver, will come four more teams for the Olympic competition.

LaSalle's youthful, swashbuckling Explorers were the first to qualify for a spot in the Olympic trials. They soundly whipped Dayton, 75-64, in the National Invitation Tournament finals Saturday in Madison Square Garden.

AND A SHORT while later they were joined by Southwest Missouri State of Springfield which scored a 73-64 triumph over Murray (Ky.) State in the NAIB final in Kansas City.

Here's how the NCAA will line up for the first round with the quarter-finals scheduled for the same cities on Saturday:

Both Class A, Class B Openers Slated For Thursday Afternoon

COLUMBUS, March 17 — (AP)—Ohio's high school basketball championships—the dream of every kid and coach—were within the grasp today of two teams capable of running up a three-game winning streak.

And each of 16 quintets, eight in Class A and eight in Class B, believed it was a team of destiny as the survivors of Ohio's long tournament grind headed into this weekend's title-deciding games.

Eliminated in the trek down "Heartbreak Highway" were exactly 1100 of the state's 1116 squads. Still on deck were some amazing teams, and a few which were just amazed. But all of them won their crack at the crown by upsetting top-flight foes when the chips were down in the "lose and out" tournaments.

Two giant killers, making their first appearance in the big show, launch Class A competition Thursday as opponents. They are Cincinnati Withrow (20-3), which eliminated Hamilton's top-rated Big Blue, and Columbus Aquinas (14-11), which sidetracked Columbus East's 1951 champions.

THE TWO newcomers clash at 1:30 p. m. in State Fairgrounds Coliseum. At 3 p. m., Middletown's three-time champions, making their ninth appearance in the state meet, tangle with Cleveland St. Ignace (20-3) here for the third time.

One evening Class A contest sends Steubenville's unbeaten Big Red (26-0) against Toledo Central Catholic (19-4). Steubenville has been to the state meet twice, losing each time in the first round, while Toledo Catholic has gone to the championship round twice in four previous tries, only to lose both.

Cleveland West, another first timer with an 18-1 record, runs into touring veteran Akron North in the other evening game. The Rubber City club, with a 16-5 record, have been here six times winning the title in 1935 and 1939, and losing in the finals in 1942 and 1946.

The Class B firing opens Thursday in Ohio State University gymnasium, with unbeaten Waynesburg (24-0) meeting North Lima (24-4) at 1:30 p. m. It's Waynesburg's seventh trip and North Lima's first.

Gibsonburg (24-2), making its third try for the title, meets Nelsonville (20-3) at 3 p. m. Nelsonville made the big tourney twice when in Class A, but this is its first bid in Class B.

Minster (24-1) and Urbana Local (25-3), each making its first appearance in the big show, meet at 7 p. m.

THE CLASS B finale for Thursday brings together New Matamoras (25-5), here for the second time, and Lockland Wayne's powerhouse (24-4). Wayne is making its fifth try, its best previous performance sending it into the finals in 1949.

The Class B first round survivors meet in Fairgrounds Coliseum Friday afternoon, with the Class A quartet clashing in the evening. Finals in Class B are Saturday afternoon, with the A championship set for an evening decision.

Mack Schaffer of Ottawa was chosen as an official by the Class A coaches for the ninth time and the fifth in a row.

Other Class A officials picked were Zigmund Mikalik of Ford City, Pa., who will work with Schaffer, and Bill Hosket of Dayton and A. N. Smith of Elyria.

The Class B whistle-blowers are Paul Schott of Canton, Harold Rolph of Ironton, Herb Cummings of Hamilton and Lowell Allen of Youngstown.

Here are Saturday's regional tournament results:

CLASS A

At Canton: Steubenville (26-0) 61, Girard (23-3) 44; Akron North (16-5) 62, Massillon (17-7) 54.

At Berea: Cleveland West (18-1) 54, Cleveland Heights (20-2) 47.

At Toledo: Toledo Central Catholic (19-4) 64, Lima Central (13-7) 56.

CLASS B

At Dayton: Lockland Wayne (24-4) 38, Marysville (18-5) 30.

At Athens: New Matamoras (25-5) 65, Elm Valley (24-3) 64.

At Toledo: Gibsonburg (24-2) 44, McComb (20-8) 41.

The "Registrant" is the term used for an American who is buying goods on installments agreed upon in a seller-buyer relationship. I will cite an example:

"My husband and I were both employed and able to pay $26.00 per month. Due to pregnancy, I am unable to work. Our only source of income is $32.00 per week. I can only pay $18.00 per month."

The seller would surely have granted the extension, but he might have got some good will out of it. But no! It must be a cold transaction.

I have examined, confidentially, of course, a large number of documents. How I got hold of them, I may not say because my source says it would bring great hardships to the businesses involved.

The interesting fact is that most of the businesses involved in consumer credit do not want "Regulation W" continued. They do not want the pauper's oath.

They prefer a restoration of human relations between buyer and seller. They have actually organized themselves into "The National Foundation for Consumer Credit" to oppose the extension of this "Regulation W" which expires on June 30, 1952.

This is one of many measures for the control of the people by the government. For the only evidence can be that the people fail to

Western 'Tang' Due In 1952 Cooking School

First Session
Of Institute
Due March 25

Family Will Enjoy
Meals Built On Cowboy Theme

"Join hands and circle 'round," sponsors of the 1952 Gasco Food Institute suggested to homemakers here today.

It's a friendly and informal invitation to attend the first performance of the three-day cooking school which opens at 8 p. m. March 25 in Circleville Memorial Hall.

And the "bid" was made that way to highlight the spirit and dramatic features of the opening program of the all-new food-and-fun show.

Titled "Blue Flame Hoe Down," the first cooking-school session will present western-style recipes and menus that transform plain, ordinary foods into "glamour" dishes.

THOSE FOODS earn their "glamour" title several ways. The always-easy methods of cooking demonstrated at gas company cooking schools are designed to dress up plain foods, make them look more appealing and taste better.

Even beyond that, though, the "Hoe-Down" recipes have a "straight out of the West" air about them.

Some of that air is captured in the names: "Corral Roast," "Bar Sandwich," "Wagon Wheel Dessert," "Cow Girl Special," "Buckaroos" and other such titles.

Those recipes are being presented during the opening session of the cooking school to give each homemaker a chance to put her family's imagination to work for her during mealtime, according to the sponsors.

Today, almost more than ever before, youngsters have been captured by the lure of the west and its heroes of movie, radio, television and comic book fame.

"Dad" and "Mom" can join the youngsters in the enjoyment of meals built around the western, "Hoe Down" recipes with their "cowboy" titles.

While they have a special appeal to families with youngsters, recipes presented during the first program of the cooking school should be universally popular.

BECAUSE THERE are theatrical openings to each performance, cooking school sponsors today urged all those planning to attend to be on hand early.

Appearing on stage here in the "Sunny Terrace" display kitchen which is the "set" for performances, will be Lecturer Enid Parrett Barthelmas and Institute Manager Fred Barthelmas.

D. C. McClain, manager for the Ohio Fuel Gas Company here, will welcome homemakers to the cook-

Circleville High School Musicians Win Honors In Adjudication Test

A group of Circleville high school musicians Saturday won honors during a district music adjudication contest in Columbus.

Heading the list of local entries in the district competition were the high school girls' sextet, a brass quartet and a soloist.

All three of those performances were awarded ratings of "superior" by a group of musicians judging them for their technique and ability.

Soloist Charles Magill received a "superior" rating for a trombone selection entitled "Ballade."

MEMBERS OF the girls' sextet received "superior" for their performance in singing "Could My Song On Wings Go Flying."

The sextet consists of Margaret Green, Joyce Troutman, Joanne Kerr, Mary McClure, Beatrice Bass and Theresa Hill, accompanied by Patty Shellhammer.

Western 'Tang' Due In 1952 Cooking School

First Session Of Institute Due March 25

Family Will Enjoy Meals Built On Cowboy Theme

"Join hands and circle 'round," sponsors of the 1952 Gasco Food Institute suggested to homemakers here today.

It's a friendly and informal invitation to attend the first performance of the three-day cooking school which opens at 8 p. m. March 25 in Circleville Memorial Hall.

And the "bid" was made that way to highlight the spirit and dramatic features of the opening program of the all-new food-and-fun show.

Titled "Blue Flame Hoe Down," the first cooking-school session will present western-style recipes and menus that transform plain, ordinary foods into "glamour" dishes.

THOSE FOODS earn their "glamour" title several ways. The always-easy methods of cooking demonstrated at gas company cooking schools are designed to dress up plain foods, make them look more appealing and taste better.

Even beyond that, though, the "Hoe-Down" recipes have a "straight out of the West" air about them.

Some of that air is captured in the names: "Corral Roast," "Bar Sandwich," "Wagon Wheel Dessert," "Cow Girl Special," "Buckaroos" and other such titles.

Those recipes are being presented during the opening session of the cooking school to give each homemaker a chance to put her family's imagination to work for her during mealtime, according to the sponsors.

Today, almost more than ever before, youngsters have been captured by the lure of the west and its heroes of movie, radio, television and comic book fame.

"Dad" and "Mom" can join the youngsters in the enjoyment of meals built around the western, "Hoe Down" recipes with their "cowboy" titles.

While they have a special appeal to families with youngsters, recipes presented during the first program of the cooking school should be universally popular.

BECAUSE THERE are theatrical openings to each performance, cooking school sponsors today urged all those planning to attend to be on hand early.

Appearing on stage here in the "Sunny Terrace" display kitchen which is the "set" for performances, will be Lecturer Enid Parrett Barthelmas and Institute Manager Fred Barthelmas.

D. C. McClain, manager for the Ohio Fuel Gas Company here, will welcome homemakers to the cooking school.

WINDOW WASHER Edward Dempsey gets a pretty clear overall view of things from 25th floor of the United Nations secretariat building in New York, even if sometimes the UN members apparently don't. He's one of five window washers with full-time jobs on the building's 5,400 windows. In view you see the East River drive, the East River, Welfare Island and the Queensboro bridge. (International) ing school. Mrs. Shirley Burns, ald, L. M. Butch Co. and a group "Betty Newton" for Ohio Fuel, will assist during the food demonstrations.
